

Boom Separators

Enviro-USA's Boom Separators are designed to keep oil containment boom away from ship hulls or seawalls when the tide changes.

With new regulations in most ports, vessels loading or offloading oil are required to surround that vessel with oil containment boom. The problem is that most of the time, due to tide changes, the containment boom will come up against hull of this vessel. This in return creates a bigger problem in that if a spill occurs on the deck and flows overboard, the containment boom may not contain it due to its proximity to the ship. Enviro-USA's Boom Separators will make sure that the containment boom stays away from the hull and in place, so that in the case of an oil spill it will contain it as it's supposed to.

Enviro-USA Boom Separators are inexpensive, lightweight, very easy to use and can be deploy and retrieve by one person. Storing of the boom separators is very practical, using minimal space, as they fold and compact together – see picture above.

Enviro-USA's Boom Separators come complete, ready to deploy and consist of:

- 3 each – 6 ft legs
- 6 each – closed cell foam floats (2 per leg)

Boom Separators are kept in stock and can be shipped within 1 – 2 business days or with your oil containment boom order.
